

Recommendation for John De Gree's Online Classes

My 14-year-old son looks forward each week to John De Gree's online American History class, and he very much wants to take another class with Mr. De Gree next year. John explains issues clearly and gets his students to really think and evaluate what happened in the past. The class times go by quickly and are much better than what I could do at home. My son is also learning and retaining more than he would from typical history books and tests. I have sat in on most class sessions, and I especially like John's emphasis on the student looking all sides of an issue in order for the student to develop an informed opinion, supported by facts, about historical issues.

Though John is a Christian, he does not teach Christian history—he teaches the truth of what really happened. He brings out how incorrect assumptions based on current thinking and political correctness have cast many valid historical achievements as negative events. I believe that John's classes will help my son and other students gain thinking and evaluating skills that will prepare them to make a positive difference in the world as adults.
